

HIROSHIMA UNIVERSITY

Do Tan Khang – Hiroshima University - Japan

Mr. Khang is a lecturer at Department of Molecular Biotechnology, Biotechnology Research and Development Institute. He is currently a doctoral student at Division of Development Technology, Graduate school for International Development and Cooperation, Hiroshima University, Japan. The program is going to take 3 years.

The study aims to identify phytochemicals involving in physiological and biochemical responses of rice to stress conditions.

Mr. Khang in the Biochemistry Laboratory, Hiroshima University

Mr. Khang at the Vietnamese-Japan Students' Scientific Exchange Meeting, October, 2015.